SNAP THAT MATCH . . .

Forest fire hazard in the area surrounding Kelowna, is moving from high to extreme, and those people entering the forests and parks are asked to use extreme caution with matches and cigarettes. One tree can produce 6,000,000 matches, and one match can destroy 6,000,000 trees, reminds the B.C. Forest Service. So break that match to make sure it's out, and stub your cigarette properly. To prove the point, a forest ranger at the Kelowna station on Ellis Street, holds a lighted match to emphasize the posters behind. (Courier photo)

'Noise Storms' May Continue

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Magnetic storms, started by the biggest, brightest solar flare in more than two years, produced an unscheduled view of the northern lights and again fanned up shortwave radio communications around the world Tuesday night, government scientists said.

More of the same appears to be in the offing. Karl Kildahl at the U.S. space disturbance forecast centre said there is a good chance of similar phenomena tonight or Thursday as a result of another major, though smaller, flare Tuesday.

And, he said, data analysis showed a 65-per-cent chance of a third large-magnitude flare today, when the effect of the first was expected to subside.

The shortwave blackout Tuesday was less troublesome than the initial magnetic storm immediately after the flare was recorded at 1:03 p.m. EDT Monday.

Those first "noise storms" knocked out transmissions between 184 and 10 megacycles, Kildahl said. Tuesday night, the storms blacked out the range between 30 and 3 megacycles, he said.

Monday's flare was measured as Class 3 on a scale of brightness and size that uses Class 4 as a maximum. The last flare of comparable magnitude was in May 1966.

The flare reported Tuesday at 2:07 p.m. EDT was rated at between Class 2 and Class 3, still considered a major. It also caused widespread shortwave transmission difficulties, mainly in the polar region.

It is the "plasma cloud" from this flare that Kildahl said could produce another blackout and "visible aurora" Wednesday night.

Solar flares cannot be seen by the naked eye, but through filtered viewing instruments they appear as intense white spots on the sun's red mass. The earth's magnetic shield blocks out these rays.

And because the "noise storms" affect only certain ranges in the high-frequency band, other forms of radio and television transmission usually are not affected.

Pompidou Follows De Gaulle Orders

PARIS (CP) — Georges Pompidou, premier of France for the longest period in modern times, resigned today in a government shuffle ordered by President de Gaulle.

Pompidou, 57, turned in his resignation and that of his government to de Gaulle in a brief ceremony at the Elysee Palace. He was succeeded by Maurice Couve de Murville, the present finance minister.

Pompidou has been in power for six years, two months and 26 days.

Pompidou remained 13 minutes in the presidential palace and left without making any statement to reporters. He was smiling as he left.

Informed sources said Pompidou confirmed that his successor would be Couve de Murville, and urged Gaullists to close ranks around the president.

Ninety minutes before he was due to present his government's resignation to de Gaulle, Pompidou said: "It is to him and him alone that the designation of the prime minister belongs."

Peace Rumors Rapped

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador Xuan Thuy, pressing for a quick end to all U.S. attacks on North Vietnam, accused American authorities today of having "spread rumors" of progress in the Paris peace talks to serve their own political purposes.

Thuy told U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman that the search going on here for a way toward peace in Vietnam would fail unless the United States halted all attacks on the North at once.

In case of such a failure, he argued, the United States would "bear the full and entire responsibility."

Thuy made his latest attack on the U.S. position in the 12th session of the talks which began May 13. The meeting lasted about three hours.

Harriman told reporters: "I still maintain there are straws in the wind despite what he said."

There have been conflicting assessments of the deadlocked discussions for several weeks, but this was the first time the differences had come up so openly in a formal meeting.

Big Top's Fall Injures 85

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — State police said 85 of an estimated 300 spectators were injured—none critically—when a circus tent collapsed Tuesday night during a violent thunderstorm.

Scores had fled before the collapse, because of the storm.

Police said about 800 persons had been in the tent, watching as the various acts were speeded. The tent can hold 4,000.

Of the injured, two hospitals admitted two dozen, hospital spokesmen said. Others were discharged or treated on the circus grounds.

The 300-foot-long tent was the scene of a performance by the Clyde-Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus.

Some in the audience said the collapse was preceded by a loosening of some of the aluminum poles holding up the tent and by a rush of water down the top above the centre ring.

Rescue workers crawled through ankle-deep water in search of those trapped underneath the ripped canvas.

Valley Woman Badly Burned

PENTICTON — Mrs. Howard Ware, 323 Windsor Ave., Penticton, was flown to Vancouver Tuesday night following a fire while she was in bed.

Mrs. Ware, who is a cripple, suffered 70 per cent burns. Fire officials believe the cause of the fire was from a cigarette. The fire was reported shortly after 7 p.m.

Beer Strike Talks Set In Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for 3,000 brewing industry workers left idle by a strike and lockout which has shut off Ontario's beer supply said Tuesday night their union is willing to meet industry officials in an effort to reach a settlement.

WORLD NEWS IN A MINUTE

Seaway Plea

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Great Lakes shipping companies urged the government today to get the St. Lawrence Seaway back in operation, even if the strike of seaway workers is not settled.

N.Y. Shaken

NEW YORK (AP) — A bomb exploded early Wednesday in a courtyard that faces the Yugoslav and Cuban missions to the United Nations just off Fifth Avenue. There were no reports of injuries. The blast was the sixth at a foreign office in New York City since April 22.

Reagan Threatened

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Secret Service agent fired one warning shot at two Negro youths he caught approaching Governor Ronald Reagan's home with two firearms. The youths did not ignite. Police said the incident apparently was related to disturbances which started earlier Tuesday about two miles away, he added.

Bennett Ponders Appeal By IWA

Flow Of Mail Threatened

OTTAWA (CP) — The decision on whether Canada will have a postal strike this month comes closer today with presentation of a conciliation board report in the dispute.

The 24,000 letter carriers and postal clerks can legally strike seven days after the report is received by Chairman Jacob Finkelman of the public service staff relations board.

The three-man conciliation board, headed by Prof. Andre Desgagne of Laval University, is to present its recommendations some time today. But they are not expected to be made public immediately.

More than 90 per cent of the workers, members of the Council of Postal Unions, already have voted to strike if a satisfactory settlement is not reached.

Mr. Finkelman delayed the threatened strike a week ago by

Dr. Spock Sentenced To Jail For Inciting Draft Dodgers

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock was sentenced today to two years in prison and ordered to pay a $5,000 fine for conspiracy to aid, abet and counsel young men to avoid the draft.

His three co-defendants also received two-year prison sentences. They were ordered to pay varied fines.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford granted stays of execution for all the sentences, pending appeals to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and continued the defendants' $1,000 bonds.

Convicted with the 65-year-old pediatrician were Yale University chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43, fined $5,000; Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, $1,000 fine; Mitchell Goodman, 44, an author from Temple, Me., fined $5,000.

Lawyers for the four immediately announced intentions to appeal the sentences.

In a brief statement before passing sentence, Ford, 85, told the crowded courtroom:

"Where law and order stops, obviously anarchy begins.

"Almost every week in this court," Ford said in angry tones, "young men are sentenced to three years in prison for evading the draft. It is reasonable to conclude that these defendants were instrumental in citing some of these men to flout the law."

"Be they high or low, intellectuals as well as others must be deterred from violating the law. These defendants should not escape under the guise of free speech."

RIVER DAM TO WASH OUT

Anti-Pollutionists Prove Point

CENTREVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Robert Calnes, spokesman for a group of irate Centreville villagers who dammed the Presque Isle River here Tuesday to protest water pollution from Maine, said the river's flow should return to normal today.

Mr. Calnes said a headpond of water backed up more than a mile by the nine-foot high barricade would gradually wash out the centre of the dam, allowing the stream to resume its usual flow.

"This is what we want," he said. "We had no intentions of damming the river permanently. We've made our point."

Resources Minister W. R. Duffie of New Brunswick said he had been advised by health department officials that operations to pick up the thousands of dead fish along the river's

Coast Talks Deadlocked On Vacations Agreement

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today he has made no decision on a union request to intervene in the coastal woodworkers contract dispute.

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said he can see no need for government intervention.

The request for government action came Tuesday in a telegram to the premier from Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America. It came as unofficial work stoppages continued.

Noting that the coastal lumber employers had refused to negotiate vacations after coming to an agreement on wages, the union telegram said:

"You must be aware of the critical situation existing throughout the industry and that an early settlement is imperative . . . we urge you to use your good offices to bring about the return of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd. to the bargaining table."

Forest Industrial Relations (FIR) is bargaining agent for 114 coast forest companies who reached agreement with the 26,000 coast IWA men at the weekend on a wage increase of 36 cents an hour over two years on the base rate of $2.76.

Commented Mr. Bennett from Kelowna when told of the wire: "When I receive their telegram, I will give it a lot of careful thought and study."

Labor Minister Peterson, however, said the parties are so close to a settlement on their own that he sees no need for the government to step in.

"I would urge the parties to resolve the issues in dispute on their own without government intervention," he said in Victoria.

Sticking point in the negotiations is vacations. The union is demanding longer holidays, but John Billings, president of FIR, says bargaining is finished, and has refused for three days to meet the union negotiators.

The 4,000-member loggers' local of the IWA has set strike deadline of 4 p.m. PDT today and says it will strike six weeks unless a settlement is reached by that time.

The employers have said that a strike at any one plant will be answered by a lockout of all IWA members on the coast.

Meanwhile, 250 loggers walked off their jobs Tuesday at Vancouver Island camps of the Tahsis Co. Ltd.—two of a number of short-term walkouts in the industry.

Battle Of Policemen Leaves 2 Wounded

NEW YORK (AP) — Two policemen were shot and wounded when a gunbattle erupted Tuesday night among three off-duty city policemen following an automobile mishap on the Cross-Bronx Expressway.

The injured were identified as probationary patrolman Nicolò J. Danisi, 24, in critical condition with a head wound, and patrolman John Dalton, 41, in serious condition with a chest wound. Both were in hospital.

Police identified the third man as detective Frederick Gibson, 28.

All three were dressed in civilian clothes and driving their own cars when the incident began about 10:15 p.m.

The car driven by Dalton stalled on the expressway in East Bronx where the roadway is partially blocked by construction.

Danisi was in a car backed up behind the stalled vehicle and he got out and walked up to Dalton's car. Police said the two men started arguing.

Gibson, who was several cars away, told police he saw Danisi pull out his wallet and display his shield to Dalton.

A police spokesman said Gibson then saw Dalton shoot Danisi, the bullet striking the probationary patrolman above the right eye.

Police said Gibson then took cover behind a car and, drawing his revolver, ordered Dalton to drop the gun. But, Dalton fired at Gibson instead, police said.

Returning the fire, Gibson shot Dalton in the chest.

Bridegroom-Gunman Recruit Not Wanted By Aussie Army

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Wally Mellish was in a mental hospital today, unwanted by the Australian Army or the convicted prostitute he married while holding her and their baby son hostage.

The ex-convict, who held off police for a week by threatening to kill Beryl Muddle and Leslie, left his house Tuesday and surrendered when the police promised he could apply to fight in Vietnam.

The army turned him down, and the police took him to the mental hospital.

Beryl, 18, who was married to Mellish last Wednesday on the second day of the siege, said she is "through with Wally for good."

The police did not enforce a warrant for her arrest for failing to pay a $42 fine for prostitution.

RIVER OF DEATH

Assorted craft of the U.S. Navy's mobile Riverine Force carry troops of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade down a tributary of the Saigon River on an operation against Viet Cong units operating in the area. Saigon itself is visible in the background. The river patrols supplement helicopter lifts and are on a 24-hour effort to prevent Viet Cong troop movements. Losses were heavy as a result of shelling from river's banks.

Experimental Laser Cane May Be Able To Aid Blind

TORONTO (CP) — An experimental and controversial laser beam cane for blind persons was to be demonstrated today at the annual convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind.

The white metal cane, the only one of its kind in existence, contains three beam producers and three receptors.

A laser beam is a uniform, intense beam of pure, invisible light that has been adapted to a galaxy of scientific uses since it was developed in 1960.

The cane's inventor, Thomas A. Benham of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., is director of Science for the Blind, which manufactures electronic aids for sightless persons.

The cane emits laser beams from its upper half and receives the beams as they are reflected from objects in the environment on receptors in the bottom section.

One beam is focused obliquely upwards and senses objects in the area of a person's head and chest. A second beam is emitted horizontally and detects walls and blockages straight ahead of a person holding the cane.

A third beam is focused toward the ground.

CONVERT BEAMS

The receptors convert the beams that bounce off nearby objects into radio signals. A high-pitched tone is emitted when the walker is near overhead obstructions.

A low-pitched tone that sounds like a bagpipe is sounded when changes, such as steps or a curb, are sensed in the surface.

For objects directly in front of the person, the returning beam activates a tiny plunger just below the curved head of the cane, touching the carrier's index finger.

Critics of the laser cane are opposed to it because it cannot discriminate between objects in its path as devices available today can do.

Monday a blind Canadian inventor, James Swail, demonstrated his "sonic cane," a flashlight-type device that emits ultrasonic signals and picks them up when they bounce off obstacles.

Users of Swail's invention say they can "read" the radio signals and differentiate the sound of a picture on a wall, stairs and doors.

U.K. Protects 'Coloreds'

LONDON (Reuters) — The House of Commons passed today a bill to protect Britain's 1,000,000 Negroes and Asians against discrimination in housing, jobs and other economic fields.

The bill passed after an all-night debate in which a powerful block of Opposition Conservatives rebelled against their party leaders. The vote was 182 to 44.

Forty-four Conservatives voted against the bill, although official Opposition policy was to abstain.

Quinton Hogg, chief Opposition spokesman on interior affairs, was shouted down by Conservative members when he told the House he was dismayed by racist feelings recently expressed in Britain.

The bill would strengthen conciliation machinery for dealing with complaints of racial discrimination and create special courts in which people could claim damages for any loss suffered through racism.

A last-minute change in the bill—which has to pass the House of Lords before it will be law—also gave the country a controversial definition of discrimination.

Impending Strike Looms Over Lakehead's Bustle

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — A strike that would transform the Lakehead's mammoth terminal grain elevators into monuments of inactivity could start at any minute.

All conciliation procedures leading up to strike action have been completed.

But, for now, the 1,300 Fort William-Port Arthur grain handlers are still on the job at the more than 20 grain company terminals.

A vote announced Tuesday—97 per cent in favor of strike action—was accompanied by union expressions of hope that the dispute will be settled at the bargaining table and not on the picket line.

Significantly, no strike deadline was set.

"We are not planning for any immediate withdrawal of services," said union spokesman Frank Mazur.

Somebody has to get negotiations going again, and the union says it is not going to make the first move.

In the meantime, a firm strike date—Aug. 25—was set by union representatives of 15,000 pulp and paper company employees.

Most in Ontario

All the companies involved are in northwestern Ontario with the exception of operations at Pine Falls, Man., and Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que.

Unions in the two plants are counted in the membership of the Central Canada Council of Pulp and Paper Mill unions because they are part of the Abitibi Co. network.

Abitibi is the regional giant of the pulp and paper industry with two operations in Port Arthur and others in Fort William, Sault Ste. Marie, Sturgeon Falls and Smooth Rock Falls.

Other communities involved, many of them one-industry towns, are Thorold, Fort Frances, Kenora, Red Lake, Terrace Bay, Marathon, Kapuskasing and Espanola.

Strike action "has been endorsed by the membership in Kenora and Fort Frances and strike votes will be held in a number of other towns during the next week."

Council spokesman Carl Blaszyk of Fort Frances said: "If satisfactory settlements between union and management have not been concluded by Aug. 25, all council-affiliated locals in a position to strike will do so."

A grain handlers' strike would halt all grain deliveries from the country elevators in Manitoba and most of Saskatchewan.

HITS FARMER FIRST

The farmer would be the first to suffer, because he gets paid on the basis of his deliveries to the country elevator.

The railways would immediately put an embargo on grain shipments to the Lakehead because there is nothing to be gained in using grain cars for deliveries that wouldn't be unloaded.

This, in turn, would quickly plug up the eastern prairie elevators.

Two Boys Killed In Unused Fridge

LA HABRA, Calif. (AP) — The father of a boy missing for more than two hours found the bodies of his son and a companion, huddled together in an unused refrigerator in the family garage. Salvador Ramps, 5, and John Rubio, 2, were discovered dead Tuesday by Salvador's father, Pablo Ramos.

Thant Raps 'The Gap'

GENEVA (AP) — UN Secretary-General U Thant, criticizing both industrial and developing nations, sounded a new warning today that failure to narrow the gap between the world's rich and poor is an "invitation to violence."

"Both on the national and international level, the poor are increasingly aware of the gap that separates them from the rich, increasingly impatient at the denial of adequate help for them to bridge this gap. Failure to act is an invitation to violence."

His caution was contained in an address prepared for the opening of the summer session of the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

He said industrialized nations must be persuaded to learn that "their future prosperity and security and that of their children and grandchildren is inextricably linked with the well-being of people in the developing countries."

Blame for the world's present situation should not rest, however, on one side alone.

Michael Roberts Is Named Community Chest Chairman

Michael Roberts, a veteran of 12 years of Community Chest service, has been named campaign chairman for the Central Okanagan Community Chest for 1968-69, it was announced today.

Mr. Roberts will replace William Bennett, a resident of Kelowna for four years. Mr. Bennett has had 12 years of Community Chest service and brings executive experience from Vancouver and Ottawa. In Vancouver he served as team captain and division chairman.

In his new post he will co-ordinate the activities of other volunteers. After dividing the area for complete coverage, the co-chairmen then organize the volunteer canvassers to call upon businesses and residential areas. Before the campaign is completed 700 people will be involved.

Anyone interested in volunteering their services to the Chest, whose fund-raising campaign is for 18 different service agencies in the Central Okanagan may call the Chest office at 762-3608.

Kelowna Boys' Club Prepares For Its Part In The Regatta

The Kelowna Regatta is to Kelowna — what the Kentucky Derby is to Louisville, a gala affair.

One of the groups which helps to make it so is the Kelowna Boys' Club who with the Regatta one month away are already prepping for the event. Youngsters, including non-members, can participate in a variety of ways, by designing crazy bikes, riding a unicycle, or dressing up in any costume, preferably along the comedy theme.

Anyone who isn't a member of the Kelowna Boys' Club and would like to participate in the parade can contact Herb Sullivan at the club before July 15.

Boys' Club members will be selling Regatta programs, which may be obtained by sellers two days before the Regatta. More than 4,000 programs have been sold by the boys in previous years.

The club is open to July 15 and closed to Aug. 1. Then it reopens until Aug. 15 and is closed to Sept. 3 when the regular schedule will resume. It is open five afternoons and six evenings weekly for boys 17 years inclusive. Yearly fee is $1.

Pine Woods Lodge Guilty Under The Income Tax Act

Pine Woods Lodge Ltd., of Manning Park, was found guilty in magistrate's court in Princeton Tuesday, on four counts under the Income Tax Act and fined a total of $575.

Magistrate G. S. Denroche found the company guilty of wilfully attempting to evade payment of taxes imposed by the Income Tax Act and three counts of filing false income tax returns.

The trial began in Princeton and after five days was moved to Kelowna where it continued for two and one-half days, concluding June 12. Decision was reserved to Tuesday in Princeton.

A $500 fine was given for the single count and $25 on each of the three counts of filing false returns.

Further penalties may be imposed by the Income Tax department. The company has not decided whether or not it will file an appeal.

Crown counsel N. D. Mullins said in Kelowna, the department of national revenue investigator, D. W. Coleman of Princeton, was unable to find any record of $13,994 of the company's income, representing $2,938 in income tax. The tax has since been paid.

Some 26 items were set forth in the evidence of Mr. Coleman, most of them involving groups staying at the lodge with a difference existing between the statement and the costs charged for room and meals.

Defense counsel was Graham Darling of Vancouver.

Beat Up 1957 Car Passes Tests With Flying Colors

The cars came in assorted shapes and sizes: big cars, small cars, Cadillacs and Volvos. There were autos which shouldn't have been on the highway, spotless cars that you wondered about, and an old jalopy you thought was on its last leg.

A 1957 car, which Jaycee worker Mel Loyst says looked like 17 people had been killed in it, was tucked under some. It passed with flying colors.

This was the scene, Tuesday, as the motor vehicle inspection unit conducted its safety check in the Memorial arena parking lot. The check continues through Saturday.

As each motorist enters the lot he is issued an inspection report which is punched rejected or passed as he goes through inspection and the clearing stations which follow. At inspection the motor vehicle license is taken, plate, tail and stop light checked as well as turn signals, reflectors, horn, windshield wipers, windows doors, body, hood and bumper. At station one a thorough check is conducted on lights, and wheel alignment, while at two the steering mechanism and brakes are cleared.

The driver of a safety approved car is given a certificate good for six months.

When the inspection report has been punched as rejected the driver is asked to have the repairs or adjustments made and return the vehicle before the date shown on the report.

Cars are checked for 97 items before they are approved.

Man Collapses On The Beach

A retired chartered accountant from Montreal, William Dixon Sumner, 66, of 2061 Abbott Street, collapsed on the beach near his home at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Kelowna General Hospital.

It is understood the man was swimming before his collapse. A doctor was called and the ambulance attended.

Death was due to a heart attack. No inquest or inquiry is planned.

Mr. Sumner was born in Montreal and retired to Kelowna in 1967.

He is survived by his wife, Martha, two daughters, Elizabeth, Mrs. K. Murray, Carleton Place, Ont., Frances, (Mrs. Ian MacGregor), Belleville, Ont. and four grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held Friday at 10 a.m. from the Garden Chapel with Rev. R. E. F. Berry officiating. Cremation will follow.

CONCILIATION HEARING

Issue Confused Charges CUPE

A conciliation board sitting, which began in Kelowna Monday, concluded at noon Tuesday with the union claiming management was "confusing the issue with half truths, and statements which it could in no way substantiate."

The board was hearing briefs from representatives of 13 Okanagan municipalities and the Canadian Union of Public Employees. The union was seeking to negotiate a master contract for the municipalities which are all members of the Okanagan Mainline Municipal Association, said he thought it was the first time in Canada such a collective agreement had ever been sought for municipalities.

Chairman of the board was R. G. Clements, with John Oliver representing the employers' group and Lorne Robson the union. All are from Vancouver. Mr. Clements ruled the board hearing was closed to the press. Immediately following the closing of the hearing Tuesday, the three-man board went into a meeting. The board's report will be made to the provincial minister of labor, Mr. Clements would not say when this might be done.

Today both the union and municipalities' representative issued statements.

The union spokesman said the board had an "almost untenable job in that not one clause in the agreement had been agreed to and that the wage proposal made by management was totally unacceptable."

In a prepared statement he said "the union felt management, in their endeavors were confusing the issue with half truths, and statements which they could in no way substantiate."

He said he felt it was almost an impossibility for the conciliation board to write a recommendation which would be acceptable.

Mr. Wilson said the 13 municipalities ranged from large cities to small villages.

His prepared statement reads in part:

This has made it necessary for the municipalities to exercise meticulous care in drafting contract language designed to meet the requirements of all without at the same time creating areas of conflict which could lead to future grievances and misunderstandings.

"To do this we have prepared a single basic area agreement common to all municipalities, with local supplements applicable to each individual municipality."

"In preparing our proposals the municipalities have never lost sight of their heavy responsibility to the taxpayers throughout the entire Okanagan to see that any area agreement entered into is not only reasonable, but is fair to all concerned and, equally important, is completely workable."

"Agreement was reached on a number of matters, and tentative agreement on various others, during negotiations. Unfortunately, in matters, in addition to wages and salaries, still remain unresolved. Consequently the conciliation board has a difficult task ahead of it."

"We are hopeful that the material we have placed before the board will enable it to come up with recommendations for a first area agreement which will prove acceptable to the 13 municipalities and to the employees throughout the area who are so vitally concerned in a successful outcome to its endeavors."

Municipalities involved are Kelowna, Vernon, Princeton, Revelstoke, Salmon Arm, Coldstream, Oliver, Osoyoos, Merritt, Lillooet, Kamloops, District and Village of Salmon Arm.

B.C. Indians To Display Their Work At Art Centre

Kelowna art lovers will have an opportunity this week-end to sate their artistic desires.

The occasion — an art exhibition, Saturday, July 13, 2 to 8 p.m. at the Art Centre, presented by B.C. Indians.

A workshop has been conducted in Kelowna for the past three weeks for people of Indian origin learning art. Their work, which is of particular interest to the tourist and householder will be on display.

The course, sponsored by a grant from the Koerner Foundation and under the direction of Zeljko Kujundzic, a former director of the B.C. Provincial School of Art, has attracted students from Kamloops, Oliver, Princeton, Kelowna, the Kootenays, Cariboo and Manitoba.

Mr. Kujundzic, who has held an interest in the work of Canadian Indians for many years, sees a need for them to utilize their natural artistic talent. His interest in the work of Indians dates from 1958 when he taught on St. Mary's Reserve near Cranbrook.

Pottery making, facilitated by the presence of clay on many reserves and the simple erection of kilns, could provide a subsidiary livelihood, to Indians that is compatible with their native culture.

Items produced by workshop participants will be available for sale, at the Centre where classes have been conducted.

Two City Teachers Enrol In Special Driving Course

Kelowna teachers S. E. Swar-chuk and W. H. Hosack have signed up for an extra course at the University of B.C. this summer, one geared to make better drivers of Kelowna young people.

They are two of 32 teachers in the province who enrolled in a driver education teacher training course, sponsored by the B.C. Safety Council and the All Canada Insurance Federation.

The course runs three hours daily from July 2 to 19. Master instructor is Robert Kiewitz, an industrial arts teacher at South Burnaby High School who received special instruction in order to teach the teachers.

The course covers such topics as: Need for driver education, psychology of the driver, alcohol and drugs, physical disabilities, maintenance, insurance, plus on the road instruction. The motor vehicle branch and the RCMP are also cooperating in presenting the course.

As a result of a similar course held last year, 140 students in Fort St. John during the past year received expert instruction in safe driving techniques, a factor which could save their lives.

Clouds Covered Kelowna And Area 23 Days In June

Sun and cloud characterized the weather scene in the month of June.

Clouds covered the Kelowna area for 23 days.

Rainfall in June, 1968, measured 2.15 inches. The monthly report showed the average temperature during June was 61.45, compared with last year's average of 66.05. The average low was 49.7 compared with last year's low of 53.6.

The average high this year was 73.2, while a year ago the average high was 78.5, the highest average in at least six years.

The highest temperature recorded in the city in June was 89 on June 25. The lowest reading was 48 on the 14th.

The highest temperature a year ago was 91 and the lowest 44.

The mercury topped 80 degrees only four times during June, though it surpassed or equalled 78 on five other occasions.

A year ago the temperature topped 90 four times and reached 90 16 times. Thirteen times this year the low was less than 50 degrees.

Rain fell on 12 days in June compared with eight a year ago.

OH BOY, WHAT A JOB!

Being the son of a resort-owner isn't always an easy life of sitting on the beach and soaking up Okanagan sunshine. Ron Hicks, 16, son of a Winfield resort-owner will testify to that fact. Ron regularly has to mow the 3-acre par-3 golf course maintained by the resort. The mower he is leaning against is used only to touch up the putting greens and Ron normally uses a more convenient power mower to handle the bulk of the work. (Courier photo)

It Can Be Said Again— Campaign Too Long

Somewhere in Canada it always seems to rain on election day. This is not surprising considering the width of the country, but still it does rain and politicians have one answer and meteorologists another. But the more probable reason, we think, is it is Nature's way of washing away two months of tedium; something to cool the fevered brow after a campaign that has run much longer than it need.

Editorial writers have grown from downy cheek to white whiskers in the company of this theme. Prime ministers have come and gone, always nodding kindly in the direction of a shorter election. Campaign strategists, wise enough to understand the special impact of a crisp, concise message, have longed for change. The British have short campaigns. So do the French. But not us.

Still, now another election has come and gone, it may be worth stating—for the particular benefit of those who have been sent to Ottawa—that the prescribed interval of 49 days (the minimum) and the average of 60 days between the calling of an election and polling day was made law in horse and buggy days. Today's combination of jet aircraft and generally faster communications cry out for a fresh look at the time essential for a full campaign.

Brevity is not only a virtue which Canadian elections lack — a point made rather bluntly a couple of years ago by the report of the special Commons committee on election expenses. This called for a drastic overhaul of the rules.

It is curious that while, in important areas like influence buying, we are hampering the methods by which Canadians strive to express themselves on polling day, we are also capable of being extraordinarily fastidious about little things. We clutter elections with all kinds of regulations that do not seem to serve any vital purpose. A ballot marked with a pen, for instance, is spoiled; so too is one on which we indicate our preference by a tick instead of a cross. Badges can't be worn in or near a polling booth.

Apparently with the object of keeping our elections pure, we insist that the pubs be locked up tight, even after the polls are closed. We can neither celebrate victory nor drown sorrows.

Who was it conned us into thinking we have entered the era of "new politics"? The system never changes, does it Sir John?

Conservative Problems

Contrary to popular political myth, the Conservative party does not eat its leaders, in the opinion of Senator Gratton O'Leary.

In an interview with the Ottawa bureau of Thomson Newspapers, the elder Conservative statesman contended that Robert Borden, Arthur Meighen, R. B. Bennett and R. J. Manion had all resigned from the leadership on their own decision. George Drew had not been driven out of the party, but had resigned as leader because of ill health.

"Mr. Diefenbaker is the only leader we have had who was forced out and, in my opinion, for good reasons. But it is nonsense to perpetuate the myth that the party eats its leaders," Senator O'Leary said.

(Oddly he did not mention John Bracken, for whom the party is supposed to have raised a "retirement fund".)

But the former Ottawa publisher is concerned about public bickering among the party brass on matters of policy and placing the blame for the recent election defeat at the door of any person.

"Our job is to fight the Liberals, not wash our own dirty linen in public," Senator O'Leary declared. "What the Conservative party needs is patience, not panic. If it does a proper job in opposition, it will gradually earn respect in all parts of the country. Governments tend to defeat themselves and if Mr. Trudeau doesn't produce he will be in trouble and all the charisma in the world won't help him."

While the Senator has been critical of Mr. Diefenbaker in recent years, he says the former leader was right on a number of matters. He agrees entirely when Mr. Diefenbaker says that the people have every right to examine the past record of any person who presents himself as a candidate for prime minister.

"The Conservatives didn't go after Mr. Trudeau hard enough in the election. If Mr. Diefenbaker had been leader we might have won more seats because he would have attacked Mr. Trudeau much harder. I have known the prime minister for some time. He is a bright boy, but would General Motors choose him as their president?" the Senator asks.

Senator O'Leary does not agree with Mr. Diefenbaker, however, that Dalton Camp should have resigned as national president when he was nominated to contest a Toronto riding.

He does agree that Mr. Camp might have been more careful in what he said on party policy and should try to avoid sounding as if he was a potential leader. Recently, Mr. Diefenbaker blamed Mr. Camp for helping to lose Saskatchewan seats to the New Democrats by a statement that as far as the Conservative party was concerned, medicare was a "dead duck."

The Senator does not agree with popular sentiment that an opposition party has to have specific proposals and alternatives to offer to every piece of government legislation. The opposition should have a broad set of principles and should attack any legislation that it considers bad for the country. But it cannot offer specific programs for every item because it doesn't have all the facts at its command, as does the government.

He believes the Conservative party needs an adequate research staff and "not three or four boys writing superficial speech for MPs."

"Mr. Stanfield lost the election but he gained great respect in all parts of the country. If we start blaming individuals for our defeat, we will be in a terrible position. We gambled with Faribault in Quebec and it didn't come off, but we still had to make some effort to win support—in that province, I feel Mr. Stanfield would have been better advised to say the party stood for one nation, and left it at that without any qualifying remarks," Senator O'Leary commented.

While he regrets the loss of many of the older front bench Conservatives, he feels it may be a good thing eventually for the party if younger men like Gordon Fairweather, David MacDonald, Ted Baldwin and Gordon Aiken are given a chance to do more work and assume more responsibility in opposition.

Spectacular Wild Life Threatened In East Africa

NAIROBI (Reuters)—Kenya's spectacular wild life may vanish within 40 years unless the government modernizes its conservation policies, an eminent British scientist warned recently.

Dr. Richard Laws' warning brought a denial from Kenya wild life authorities. If Kenya had no progressive game conservation policies it would not have employed Laws and other experts, said spokesmen of the tourism and wild life ministry.

Laws resigned from his $12,000-a-year post as director of a Tsavo National Park elephant research project after a controversy over elephant cropping.

STUDIES ELEPHANTS

He said before leaving Kenya for Cambridge University, England, in mid-June: "I don't feel very optimistic about the future of wild life here."

Laws spent most of the last seven years studying elephants in Kenya and Uganda.

He was appointed director of the Tsavo elephant research project when it started in February, 1967.

The three-year scheme, sponsored jointly by the Kenya government and the Ford Foundation, studied the elephant population in and around Tsavo and the effects elephants have on vegetation and other animals.

There are an estimated 23,000 elephants in the park and another 12,000 around it. Laws and other experts believe that if their population is not drastically reduced the herds will eventually eat themselves out of existence.

He was allowed to shoot 300 elephants to collect vital biological specimens. But when he proposed it was necessary to kill another 1,200 to 1,500 to sample each of the 10 distinct elephant groupings traced in the park, he said he received no response from Kenya wild life authorities.

Laws said that each of the 10 separate populations, with differing age structure, breeding and mortality rates, has to be treated individually to find out which needs help if it is to be reduced to a number that the habitat can support.

In the past, he said, elephants had been able to adapt themselves to a changing environment when their movement was not restricted. They have built-in adjustments to their fertility and mortality rates.

But with the development of national park boundaries, their movements were curtailed. If the elephants continued unchecked to root up trees, eat vegetation and transform their natural habitat into a virtual desert, then it was possible that thousands would die of starvation.

Kenya wild life authorities said the country is at the forefront in the development of wild life policies.

If he is also combining the

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

His Dizzy Spells May Be Vertigo

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: What would make a room, and pictures on the wall, seem to spin around? My husband almost passed out from this twice within a year.

When this happens he gets cold and his heart pounds. I had doctors both times but by the time they got here he was about out of it and felt fine the next day.

He has a tendency of low blood pressure and sinus trouble. He is 40 and otherwise seems healthy.—T.Y.

This is a form of "objective vertigo," or extreme dizziness, when things seem to rotate.

I would prefer not to try to say what the exact cause may be in your husband's case. There are varying causes. Often vertigo is a result of some disorder of the balance mechanism, as in Meniere's disease or labyrinthitis.

You also mention low blood pressure. This does not ordinarily cause symptoms to the degree you describe. However, the possibility of what we call an "irritated carotid sinus syndrome" must be considered. To simplify it, that means a disturbance of circulation to the brain due to pressure on the side of the neck—it can be a tight collar or holding the head in a particular position or some such.

Another possibility is a disturbance more or less related to migraine, or to certain types of convulsive disorders.

If the attacks continue, it might be in order to consult a neurologist, as it is not always easy to identify the exact type of disorder without special tests.

Dear Dr. Molner: A young relative living in a foreign country (on contract) has been stricken with toxoplasmosis. Could you tell me something of this disease, duration, treatment, etc.—F.H.

This is a disease of the central nervous system caused by a parasite called Toxoplasma gondii. It is widely distributed over the globe and appears to be spread by various wild as well as domestic animals. The disease is often associated with trichinosis or "pork worm disease." While the exact mode of transmission is yet to be pinned down, the disease is sometimes found to follow eating of undercooked pork or rabbit.

The eyes often are involved, in the form of uveitis.

In babies, the outlook with this disease is, frankly, not good; with adults, not too bad. Treatment is a complicated program with pyrimethamine and sulfadiazine. Not infrequently, however, milder cases subside after many months without specific treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could this be? I have something like an ulcer on the ball of my foot which won't heal. It is a deep hole with a hard ring like a corn around it. It started like a large corn. After two or three months the centre came out and a little blood dripped from it.—S.J.

Certainly appears to be an ulcerated callus. Infection is common in these, and can involve the deeper tissues of the foot and possibly the bone. There's no home remedy for it, but it should be treated by your doctor or a podiatrist to prevent spreading of infection deeper into the foot.

Comic Book Teaches

OTTAWA (CP)—Youngsters writing the forestry department for information on conservation and forestry will find their queries answered in a way they readily understand—with a comic book.

All the excitement of managing Canada's forests, plus the drama of fighting raging forest fires, is summed up in 20 pages in the adventures of "Forest Bill Northwood," or Claude Brisvert if you prefer the French edition.

The cartoon strips were drawn by Fraser Wilson of Victoria. They pack the basic lessons of resource management into the story of Northwood and his two teenage assistants, Pete and Jerry, as they fight forest fires, deal with racketeers and rescue an injured scientist.

The comic book ends with some tips on safety as Jerry and Pete await their own rescue after being trapped by flooding rivers in the spring runoff.

Bill Northwood will not compete with Batman and Yogi Berra on the news-stands. But his story will help the forestry department's information office cope with the steady stream of letters from school teachers and young people seeking information about conservation and forestry.

The story first ran as 52 weekly instalments in several hundred weekly newspapers three years ago. The good reception it received there convinced the forestry department it would be a good addition to their information kit.

The department printed 100,000 of the comic books, 25,000 of them in French, to cope with the continuing demand for material.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

NDP REPLIES

Sir:

This is in reply to your editorial of June 28 heading "Okanagan-Boundary." You honor the New Democratic Party when you refer to us as a "well-oiled smooth working and powerful organization." Such a description if accurate would have given us victory. There certainly were many people working very hard.

What made you think that we had a "considerable war chest"? Certainly, this statement couldn't be based on the amount of money spent on newspaper, TV and radio advertising. The other parties must have spent several times what we did.

Did you base the statement on the number of "Tupper sheds" that were erected? Here too at least one of the other parties really outshone us. Furthermore, whereas we were professionally done whereas ours were all produced by volunteer labor—sometimes working right through the night. One man gave up his holidays to take charge of sign production.

Did it appear to you that we were paying a big full-time staff? There was one person employed for a short time at a low wage. The rest were all volunteers. I could name a dozen who took anywhere from their two weeks holidays to two months at their own expense and loss of income to assist the cause. The candidate himself was an example of this self-sacrifice. Twice, within 2½ years, he has broken off from working his way through college, to stand as your New Democratic Party candidate, needless to say without pay. His car was provided by a staunch supporter.

To come to the point, it cost us less than $1 for every vote we received and we still owe $1,000—where is the war chest? Also, we are prepared to tell you where every dollar came from. The other parties refuse to answer this one.

It was clearly not the "considerable war chest" but the considerable sacrifice by people believing in a cause that increased the popular vote for the NDP by over three per cent in this constituency. Had this held provincially and federally we just might have put in 44 instead of 23 MPs.

To say that "Douglas harmed rather than helped the local candidate" seems to be based on thin air. Then Kelowna should have shown the big increase in NDP vote instead of Peacock, Kelowna, being the home of the candidate and Peacock the place where Douglas held a big multi-meeting. From this one can only conclude that the direct opposite to what you say was true.

Yours truly,
L. W. FRIESEN,
Candidate, Organized
Okanagan-Boundary New Democratic Party.

OUR ECONOMY

More To Pay The Trudeau Way

By WARREN BALDWIN

OTTAWA — If the Trudeau government manages to clear the constitutional hurdle and establishes the producer marketing boards that the Prime Minister is urging, Canadians can expect to pay more for farm products and food processed from these products.

National boards would fill the gaps left in the organized marketing of farm products. They would set uniform and probably higher standards. But above all they would be expected to see that the efficient farmer was given a reasonably good return without benefit of subsidy.

In some cases this can be accomplished by improved methods of farming, more sales in the export market and greater specialization. But these developments in themselves mean larger investment of capital and in an industry, for the most part, highly protected by tariffs this, in the opinion of Ottawa officials, means that prices must rise.

INVESTMENT RETURN

The problem child of Canadian farming is the inefficient operator, clinging to land sometimes unsuited for agriculture, sometimes too small to allow economic farming. Nature with some help from ARDA is making very slow progress in reducing these uneconomic farms. But, meantime, over-production and low prices are handicapping the development of efficient farming.

Urbanites have a tendency to look at farm prices only in the light of operating costs and labor, something they would never do in running their own business. They forget that the farmer, too, is an investor, today a very big investor if he is to stay in business. The efficient farmer must also be a manager.

The average efficiently run farm today probably represents an investment of at least $100,000. Minimum investment for a profitable operation in these days of improved technology and mechanization is estimated at $50,000. Our $100,000 investor, if he was putting his money into any other business, would reasonably expect a net return of at least six per cent a year or $6,000.

If he is also combining the functions of farm management and a farm laborer to say nothing of the labor of other members of his family, $5,000 a year would be considered far below a minimum salary and wage in any other industry. Yet there are few Canadian farms where the net realized income is as much as $11,000 a year.

Last year realized farm net income which includes produce consumed on the farm as well as cash sales totalled $1,664,000,000 for all Canada. According to the 1966 farm census there are 277,000 Canadian farms that had cash sales in a 12-month period of $2,500 or more. Thus the average realized net income on these farms would be below $6,000.

Investment in these farms in 1966 was estimated at $16,000,000,000 that last year the average Canadian farmer fell short of realizing a reasonable yield on his investment and no return for his labor.

REGIONAL DISPARITY

But we are talking here only of farms classed by the census as "commercial." In addition there are 153,000 farms making cash sales of $50 a year but less than $2,500. Of this total 70,000 are being worked full time by the farmer and obviously represent depressed farming where lack of planning, lack of capital or both are putting production costs far out of line with returns. On the other 83,000 farms the owners worked only part time, making a varying proportion of their total income from outside jobs.

Most of the depressed farms are in Ontario and Quebec though the Atlantic provinces have by far the largest proportion of uneconomic operations. There are few depressed farms on the prairies. Wheat and cattle in the three provinces provided most of the $990,000,000 of net realized income last year, the highest for at least 17 years and representing 42 per cent of gross income.

In Ontario and Quebec the average farmer last year got a net return of about one-quarter of his gross income. In the Atlantic provinces the average net income was a little more than one-fifth of the gross. In British Columbia the average return was nearly 40 per cent, compared with a national average of about one-third.

Eisenhower invaded Sicily under cover of aerial and naval support and established bridgeheads west of Pachino on the southwest tip of the island, southwest and west of Cape Falso on the southern coast. President Roosevelt told Pope Pious XII Allied soldiers would respect "the neutral status of Vatican City." Prime Minister Mackenzie King said Canadian armed forces are "in the forefront of an attack which has as its ultimate surrender of Italy and Germany."

CANADA'S STORY

Liberals 'Smashers' And Tories 'Rummies'

By BOB BOWMAN

There was prohibition in Canada during the latter part of the First World War (except in Quebec) and many people wanted it continued after the war ended. Most provinces held referendums, and on July 10, 1920, New Brunswick voted to retain the ban on the sale of liquor.

This may have seemed surprising because New Brunswick had the reputation of being a province of rough-and-tumble tavern-crawling, hard-drinking citizens. However, there had always been a strong movement for prohibition led by Father of Confederation Samuel Tilley who was also responsible for Canada being called a "Dominion" when the BNA Act was planned in London in 1866.

John A. Macdonald wanted Canada to be called "Kingdom" but the British feared that the U.S.A. might object to having a kingdom on its border. Some abolition members of the government also thought that Britain should be the only kingdom. After all, Canada was only a colony.

Prohibition solved the problem by quelling from the Bible which he read every morning. "He shall have dominion from sea unto sea and from the river unto the ends of the earth." The title "Dominion of Canada" was adopted.

However, Premier Tilley's strong advocacy of prohibition got him into great trouble early in his political career. In 1855 Tilley was Provincial Secretary in a Liberal government, although he was Conservative Premier of New Brunswick at the time of Confederation. He got the legislature to pass a bill putting total prohibition into effect. This led to Tilley's defeat in an election, and there was even a movement to have him certified as insane. The Liberals in New Brunswick became known as "Smashers" and the Conservatives as "Rummies."

OTHER EVENTS ON JULY 10:
1628—David Kirke was commissioned to force Champlain to surrender Quebec.

1631—Charles I ordered Port Royal to be returned to France.

Wilson May Not Succeed In Ambition Of Tenure

The AP World Spotlight this week tells of the pressures facing British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, reports on the flourishing narcotics traffic in Tijuana, Mexico, and examines the constant problem of inflation facing Eduardo Frei's government in Chile.

LONDON (AP)—Pressures spanning deep issues of economic management, political style and judgment and personal relations, are crowding in on Harold Wilson.

They are so great that today it's an open question whether the 52-year-old Wilson, who had cherished visions of becoming the nation's longest-serving prime minister, can in fact survive the year.

Among members of his own Labor government there is a feeling that the next 100 days or so will determine Wilson's fate in office.

The time is highly significant because a succession of testing developments lies immediately ahead.

Along with these developments:

—It should become clear whether the Wilson government's economic recovery program is succeeding. This requires a balancing of Britain's trading accounts and a cut of unemployment.

—It should become clear whether Britain is going to get more time from its creditors to repay its massive debts. The Wilson government is negotiating secretly to phase out, or fund, billions of dollars worth of emergency credits and sterling balances held in London. It means in practice surrendering the pound sterling's role as a world currency.

CAN HE BE OUSTED?

—It should become known if any group, or alliance of interests, within the Labor party has the will or skill to mount any sort of challenge against Wilson's leadership. This would require prior agreement on the man who would be nominated to succeed him.

If political knowhow and guts have anything to do with it Wilson will stay put as Labor leader not only for the next 100 days but also for the next 1,000 days. He is a master of political tactics. He has never dodged a fight. He has some loyal friends.

But his critics maintain that at crucial moments over 3½ years in the premiership, he has consistently and resoundingly misjudged situations and people.

They blame him for chronic indecisiveness.

For all the pragmatism he claims, they consider he goes on living in a dreamworld of optimism, listening only to hand-picked members of his own entourage.

But Laborites who want Wilson out also know it will be tough; if not impossible, to unseat the party behind another leader soon.

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—This gambling capital of the Border's 20s, closed 33 years ago, has made a dizzying comeback as the marijuana mecca of the Turned-On '60s.

The northwest Mexico border city of 300,000—14 miles south of San Diego, Calif.—is the funnel for a booming narcotics export business worth millions of dollars a year. The United States is the primary market.

The leading source of marijuana and heroin for this market is the state of Sinaloa, on the west coast, halfway between the border and Mexico City.

U.S. narcotics bureau officials say the main line of narcotics supply now runs from Culiacan, capital of Sinaloa state, north-west of Tijuana, across the border to San Diego and Los Angeles and from there to points east. This is also a route for higher-priced narcotics smuggled from Europe by couriers unwilling to risk vigilance on the U.S. east coast.

Tijuana is called the "most visited foreign city in the world" with some reason. U.S. immigration service figures show that 22,500,000 people and 6,000,000 vehicles entered the United States here in the 12 months ending last May.

ONLY 20 SECONDS A CAR. In this dense traffic are to be found the drug sellers and smugglers whom U.S. customs inspectors, devoting an average of 20 seconds per vehicle, must weed out. Backstopping these inspectors are other federal agents and paid or volunteer informers.

Smugglers have tried almost every means, from ice cream cones to private planes using parachute drops, to get narcotics across the border.

"Almost every known body cavity has been used to hide smaller quantities of marijuana and heroin," said a veteran customs officer. So have bras, girdles, elaborate hairpieces and even hernia rupture belts.

The hub of narcotics commerce is a bustling, brassy border community whose main tourist artery, Avenida Revolution, has more night clubs and girlie shows in a three-mile length than there are in all the Central America capitals.

But while the town throbs with a visceral, anything-goes beat, narcotics aren't easy to come by. For one thing, Mexican law prescribing the use, possession and even the "incitement to use" of narcotics has been stiffened.

This has made the usual contacts more cautious and encouraged a small business of fake drug selling.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The ogre of inflation, long familiar in Chile, is striking hard this year in terms of labor strife, devaluation of the currency and trouble for President Eduardo Frei.

Over-all, the government says, the rate of inflation has been 14.7 per cent in the first five months of 1968.

The statistic is disconcerting to Frei. He once predicted his Christian Democratic administration—the first in Latin America—would have inflation under control by 1968, his fourth year in office.

Inflation was 46 per cent during the last year in office of Frei's predecessor, Jorge Alessandri. Frei said he would cut that percentage to 25 during 1965, his first year. He did.

Frei next predicted a 15 per cent rate for 1966. It was 17 per cent. Last year, according to Frei, inflation was to be around 10 per cent. It hit 21.3.

Higher-than-planned wage settlements for public employees have helped spur this year's inflation and create a budget deficit estimated by the government at 150,000,000 escudos or $19,200,000. Chileans will pay for the settlements through a special 10-per-cent surcharge tax.

Explanations for the inflation vary.

One diplomat blamed it on what he said was the high cost per unit of manufactured and other goods.

An editor said: "Chile is a nation of economists. That's why we have inflation."

He explained that too many theorists and too many hands tinker with the economy.

Others say government spending and deficits overheat the economy. They argue that Chile has too sophisticated and expensive a system of social welfare for a nation at its stage of development.

Officials have announced several new plans to cut down inflation but there has not been time to determine the degree of their success.

Switched Kidney 'Working Well'

TORONTO (CP)—A 41-year-old mother of eight, Toronto's latest kidney transplant patient, is making satisfactory progress after receiving the kidney of a five-year-old girl Friday.

Mrs. A. J. Sutherland of Toronto received a kidney from Diane Jones, 5, of Orillia, Ont., who died Friday from injuries received when she fell from a bunk bed.

A Toronto General Hospital spokesman said the transplant was unusual because the kidney was taken from a child. Doctors hope the kidney will function normally and continue to grow.

MAN IN NEWS

Murville Just Keeps His Cool

PARIS (AP)—The night was raw and rainy, and a mixed crowd of comfortable middle-class Parisians and out-of-Jace youths had packed into the dingy meeting hall. Suddenly a cloud of acrid yellow smoke rose from the floor. Women shouted, and there was a rush toward the doors.

On the rostrum, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville kept his calm. As the smoke bomb wafted up to the rafters, he launched back into his campaign speech with professional skill and bearing. He deftly fielded all questions from the floor, coolly and sometimes with cutting irony.

When the vote was in, Couve de Murville had lost in his 1967 race for a seat in the National Assembly. It was his first plunge into politics, and it seemed for a while that it might be his last.

Now the slim, softspoken technician, for nearly 40 years a model civil servant and adviser to politicians, is on the verge of taking over France's second most important political post, the premiership.

Couve de Murville at 61 is still far from a politician in the rough-and-tumble, baby-kissing sense, even though in last month's legislative elections he finally won a seat in a safe Gaullist district.

But the suave, handsomely tailored aristocrat with an encyclopedic memory is a man of unquestioned loyalty whom President de Gaulle can count on to conduct the nation's affairs as de Gaulle wants them conducted.

Couve de Murville has been at de Gaulle's side since he returned to power in the tumultuous year of 1958, his foreign minister for almost a decade and second in length of service only to Villery, who was secretary of state to Henri IV and Louis XIII.

De Gaulle, whose regime is often called an extension of the French monarchy, has depended on Couve de Murville for exact elaboration of foreign policy lines drawn by de Gaulle, often with strokes of acid.

Couve de Murville's role has frequently been considered that of an unquestioning executor. Close aides said this was not so, that in regular Friday meetings with de Gaulle at the Elysee Palace, the minister did as much talking as listening. But if there were any differences between Couve de Murville and his chief, they never got beyond the elegant salons of the palace or the gold and white corridors of the foreign ministry on the Quai D'Orsay.

Action Delayed At This Time On Censure Of SFU Chiefs

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of University Teachers will withhold further action at this time to increase the effect of its censure of the Simon Fraser University board of governors, the association announced today in a statement.

It censured the university in Burnaby, B.C., in May, criticizing administrative procedures and "feudal" regulations on teaching-job tenure. It said the board of governors interfered too much in the university's academic affairs.

The censure brought demands from students and faculty members for the resignation of President Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan and for more say for students and faculty in running the campus.

The board ordered Dr. McTaggart-Cowan to take an indefinite leave of absence. Dr. John Ellis was named acting president but he subsequently resigned.

THINGS LOOK BETTER

The association now says it has considered developments at the university since the time of its censure and is gratified by steps taken to improve conditions.

These included commitments by the board of governors that it will not take further unilateral action "of the sort that had so much to do with precipitating the motion of censure."

There also had been progress towards adoption of "appropriate measures" in connection with academic freedom, tenure and appointments.

The association says it "earnestly hopes" no further action will be required. It looks forward to learning of actual implementation of the commitments made and to "decided improvement in the general governance of the university."

The association's council is expected to review the situation at its regular fall meeting to determine whether the censure should be removed.

LEAN TO THE RIGHT

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—O Paiz — The Nation, Brazil's newest newspaper—began publication recently with a bright red masthead in which the letter Z was tipped to the right. "We'll straighten it up," a spokesman said, "only after the nation has been straightened out."

EVALUATE PROFS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP)—A student curriculum committee recently distributed a 47-item questionnaire for students to tell professors anonymously what they think of them and their courses. The ultimate question to test a professor's appeal was: "If the course were given at 8 a.m. on Saturday, would you attend?"

AID VICTIMS

GENEVA (AP)—Red Cross officials said 19 national Red Cross organizations have donated $400,000 and 3,000 tons of supplies in response to an appeal on behalf of the victims of Nigeria's civil war. They said replies have not been received from the United States and the Soviet Union.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD DWAIN MELWICKS

Melwicks-Cross Wedding Held At St. Michael And All Angels'

Yellow and white Shasta daisies decorated St. Michael and All Angels' Church at 4 p.m. on June 29 for the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Jennifer Anne Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Cross of Kelowna and Gerald Dwaine Melwicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melwicks of Kelowna, with Rev. R. E. F. Berry officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a full-length gown of white organza fashioned with a scalloped bateau neckline, a high empire waist, and three-quarter length sleeves, with lace and pearl appliques on the slender skirt and a full train attached with rosebuds and also adorned with pearls and rosebuds. A headpiece of organza petals held her shoulder-length tulle veil, which was also embroidered with pearls, in place and she carried a cascading bouquet of variegated pink and red baby carnations.

Something old was her great grandmother's ring, something borrowed her sister's headpiece, and something blue her garter.

Mrs. L. J. Toderan of Calgary was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were her two sisters the Misses Deborah and Janice Cross of Kelowna. All three wore long, scoop-necked, sleeveless dresses of pale green organza over satin with high empire bodices smocked with pearls. A floating overlay of matching organza was attached to the back of the dresses and their head-dresses were green roses with shoulder length veils. They carried bouquets of yellow and white Shasta daisies.

The charming little flower girl was Sherry Auk of Kelowna, who wore flowers in her hair, and carried a small bouquet similar to the those of the bridesmaids.

Ronald Johnson of Vancouver acted as best man, and Bob Morrison of Penticton and Phil Gillman of Vancouver, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Okanagan Mission Community Hall where the mother of the bride received wearing an A-line dress of blue lace with a matching coat, a smart navy hat, navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations. The groom's mother who assisted her in receiving the guests, chose a blue lace suit accented with a white hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Russell Young of Vernon acted as master of ceremonies and proposed the toast to the bride, which was ably answered by the groom. W. C. Jeffrey of Kelowna gave a toast to the bride's father, and T. Hughes of Kelowna gave a toast to her mother.

A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table and was topped with miniature doves with rings in their bills, while yellow and pink roses and pink candles completed the decor. The guest tables were decorated with silver driftwood, leaves and pink and white flowers, and after the cake was cut it was served to the guests on a silver tray by the bride and groom.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Toderan of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. R. Russell Young of Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson, P. Gilman, Mr. Donahue, J. O'Grady, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. W. Erdman of Westbank; Mr. and Mrs. J. Shuba of Rutland, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Thomas of Penticton.

To travel on her honeymoon to Vancouver and Seattle the bride changed to a slim dress of coral and white complimented with a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The newlyweds will reside in Century Manor, Pandosy St., Kelowna.

Young People Have Fun At Anglican Church Camp

Many Okanagan children have for years enjoyed the happy, carefree life of Camp Owaissi, Wilson's Landing. Situated about 10 miles north of the Okanagan Lake Bridge, on the west side of the lake, it covers roughly 70 acres of woodland, with 800 feet of good beach.

The earliest known history of the site indicates it was an Indian campground, and flint arrowheads are still occasionally unearthed today. There are also Indian paintings on the cliff overlooking the lake a half mile past the camp. The Fur Brigade of the early 1800's passed within a few feet of the present road.

Around 1905, it was homesteaded by an Englishman named Wilson. As orchards and other homesteads sprung up along the lakeshore, a government wharf was built to handle fruit being shipped out and to bring in supplies and mail twice a week by boat.

The property changed hands again, but the new owner was killed in the First World War, and it was eventually bought for delinquent taxes by Mrs. Browne, a neighbour. During the depression, the federal government took the property over as a work camp. Approximately 300 unemployed men were housed there at one time, and these men worked to improve the present road for three miles in both directions.

In 1950, the Anglican Diocese of Kootenay purchased the property for $9,000. It is now worth many times that amount. Many of the wooden huts of work-camp days still stand but are gradually being replaced by more solid buildings such as a dining hall and kitchen, washrooms, and campers' huts. Long range planning is aimed at making the best use of this valuable property, with the thought in mind of the camp possibly becoming a more permanent type of centre, enabling it to be used over longer periods of the year.

Presently the camp is used for church camping for four weeks during the summer, and for the remaining weeks of warm weather during spring, summer, and fall it is available for rentals. To date this year, Cubs, Navy League Cadets, a girls' hobby club, and various church groups have made full use of the facilities.

Campers attending OAC (or Owaissi—an Indian word meaning "help") have a full, busy and happy day. Rising at 7 a.m., they partake in flag-raising, morning prayers, camp chores, sports, an abundance (swimming, boating, baseball, volleyball, and hiking), chapel or devotional periods, and handicrafts. And of course, that most important item, and highlight of the day, mealtime! "Cookie" is surely the most important person in camp, and feeding 40-50 hungry boys or girls, three times a day is a challenge to any cook.

Campfire draws each day to its close, when songs with interminable verses are sung, skits performed, and stories told by the leaders. Somehow, the good fellowship with other campers around the glowing fire, beside a dusky and quiet lake, fills the camper with a sense of peace, peace, and then "lights out!" are the last rituals of the day, and before many days our campers have settled into camp routine, and are quite happy to crawl into their sleeping bags at bedtime.

Small wonder that many of them come back year after year, often as leaders or staff. This year the United and Anglican Church camps have published joint brochures in the hope that children from these and other Christian churches will feel free to attend any of these camps in the Okanagan or Shuswap areas. It could be truly "An Adventure in Christian Living." Brochures are available at Anglican or United churches, and there are still openings available for a Choir Boys' camp, to be held Aug. 11-18, directed by Donald J. Woodworth of Victoria. Direct enquiries to Rev. J. Greenhalgh, Revelstoke, B.C.

RUTLAND

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ruffin, in Rutland, have been Mrs. Ruffin's son T. A. (Bud) Williams, a former Rutland resident, who was en route from Edmonton to Vancouver, where he has been transferred. Also visiting at the Ruffin home was Mrs. J. R. Bichan of Vancouver, aunt of Mrs. Ruffin, 89 years of age, who made the trip from the coast by car with Mrs. Don McIntosh, also of Vancouver. Mrs. McIntosh taught school at Winfield in 1921, her name then being Miss Bella Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dyer of Langley, B.C., have been visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dyer of the Belgo district.

Visiting friends in the Rutland district have been former Rutland residents Mrs. Mary Coghill and her son Donald of Kamloops.

Former Rutland residents visiting the district this past week have been Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jacob and family of Salmon Arm, who were here to attend the funeral of Mr. Jacob's father, the late William E. Jacob, of 1921 Road, who passed away on June 29 at the age of 85.

An enjoyable "block party" was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jorsvik, Mrs. J. K. Todd and Mrs. L. V. Kraft, have taken the pre-school teaching course and plan to put this training to work in their home community. It is known there are more children in the four to five age group in the community than ever before. The problem is how many parents wish to enroll their children in a kindergarten class. Any parents interested are asked to phone either teacher and full information will be given.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murrell left this past week on an extended visit to northern parts of B.C. They were accompanied by their neighbor J. R. Pappas, who was Bill Stym's vocal solo, Little Brown Seed. Choir selections included John Brown's Baby, Christopher Robin, and many other popular songs.

Well received were the Rabbits, Sandra Garraway, Heather Fulk, Robin Shaw and Bill Stym, as were also another amusing group the gollywogs, Heather Fulk, Sandra Garraway, Pam Bouvette, and Kathleen MacNeil. The audience also enjoyed "We are the Lords of Creation" as performed by Kim, John and Chuck Houghaling, Bill Stym and Ronnie Shaw. Another choir audience pleaser was "I don't want to play" by girls of the choir Jo Anne Dunkin, Joy Speckman, Sandra McLaughlin and Cathy-Dene Stym.

One added attraction to the evening's entertainment was two songs sung by Mrs. R. D. Mitchell from "The Sound of Music". At the close of the concert, Mrs. Martin Shaw of Trepanier, extended the thanks of the parents present to Mrs. Mitchell for the time and effort which she spent training the children. A gift was then presented as a memento of the evening. Thanks were also given to the three accompanists, Mrs. Lloyd Kraft, Mrs. George Long and Mrs. C. C. C. and each was presented with a "Thank you" gift.

To end the evening, all the children were served a lunch in the church basement.

Concert Enjoyed By Peachland Audience

PEACHLAND (Special) — A large group of parents and friends gathered at the Peachland United Church Friday night to enjoy a concert by the Peachland Community Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. R. D. Mitchell. Also taking part were pupils of Mrs. Mitchell.

The varied program included piano solos by Sandra Garraway, Kathleen MacNeil, Elizabeth Kraft, Ruth Kraft, Daphne Loan, Julie Loan, Margaret Veger, Michael Bawden, Ann Sutherland, Sherene Symonds, Cathy-Dene Stym, Bill Stym and Donald Miller.

Some of the children also teamed up for piano duets. A vocal solo "Who Is Sylvia" by Cathy-Dene Stym was a popular item, as was Bill Stym's vocal solo, Little Brown Seed. Choir selections included John Brown's Baby, Christopher Robin, and many other popular songs.

Well received were the Rabbits, Sandra Garraway, Heather Fulk, Robin Shaw and Bill Stym, as were also another amusing group the gollywogs, Heather Fulk, Sandra Garraway, Pam Bouvette, and Kathleen MacNeil. The audience also enjoyed "We are the Lords of Creation" as performed by Kim, John and Chuck Houghaling, Bill Stym and Ronnie Shaw. Another choir audience pleaser was "I don't want to play" by girls of the choir Jo Anne Dunkin, Joy Speckman, Sandra McLaughlin and Cathy-Dene Stym.

One added attraction to the evening's entertainment was two songs sung by Mrs. R. D. Mitchell from "The Sound of Music". At the close of the concert, Mrs. Martin Shaw of Trepanier, extended the thanks of the parents present to Mrs. Mitchell for the time and effort which she spent training the children. A gift was then presented as a memento of the evening. Thanks were also given to the three accompanists, Mrs. Lloyd Kraft, Mrs. George Long and Mrs. C. C. C. and each was presented with a "Thank you" gift.

To end the evening, all the children were served a lunch in the church basement.

TO BE MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Derek Parkes of Westbank are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Bridget Elizabeth, to Trevor Jens Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Jensen of Kamloops. The wedding will take place at St. Paul's Cathedral, Kamloops, on Saturday, October 12.

Westbank Couple Are Surprised On 25th Anniversary

WESTBANK (Special) — A delightful surprise was accorded Mr. and Mrs. George Stutter on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary, Saturday, June 29, when 50 relatives gathered at their home in Westbank to wish them continued happiness.

A wedding cake, suitably decorated and topped with a "25-year" motif, graced the "bride's" table, and Mr. and Mrs. Stutter were presented with a silver tea service by their family of one daughter, Miss Lois Stutter, who teaches at Chemainus, V.I., and sons John, Christopher, Don, Dwight and Keith, and last, but not least, their grandson, Robert (Bobby) John, three-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stutter, of Kelowna.

Mrs. Stutter's brother, Fred C. Griffin, of Westbank, made the congratulatory speech on behalf of the company, among whom were the groom's brother, Maurice Howe, of Kamloops, and his sister Nellie and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Drought, of Lakeview Heights, with their sons. A close family friend, Mrs. M. Rugg, of Vancouver, also was present.

At the outset of the evening the "bride" was presented with a corsage of red rosebuds, and besides the family's gift, there were gifts of silver made to the guests of honor to mark the happy anniversary.

Peachland Church Chosen For Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Terry of Tatla Lake, B.C., wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their younger daughter Rosalind May, to Robert Alan Newton of Peachland. The wedding will take place at the Peachland United Church Saturday, August 17, at 4 p.m.

Kindergarten For Peachland

PEACHLAND (Special) — Plans are being made to start a kindergarten in Peachland this fall for children four and five years of age.

Two local ladies, both former teachers, Mrs. J. K. Todd and Mrs. L. V. Kraft, have taken the pre-school teaching course and plan to put this training to work in their home community. It is known there are more children in the four to five age group in the community than ever before. The problem is how many parents wish to enroll their children in a kindergarten class. Any parents interested are asked to phone either teacher and full information will be given.

Novel Helping Hand Service Provided By Operation Angel

TORONTO (CP) — Need a helping hand? Why not rent two?

Anne Mason has gathered a group of men and women who are willing to lend a helping hand. They charge a small fee and work for a limited time.

Mrs. Mason calls her business Operation Angel and it is patterned after the Universal Angels in England.

"They provide the kind of help that a friend could offer in sort of a social emergency," she said. "I can provide an angel to cook a meal, do shopping, get the house ready for arrival from a holiday, or meet friends or relatives at the airport, train or bus."

The Masons — husband Gerald, son Andrew, 19, and daughter Teresa, 18, — came to Canada 15 years ago but Mrs. Mason only thought of her idea last February when many of her friends continually told her they were interested in lending assistance outside their homes. Aside from her friends she hopes to add her children's friends to the ever-growing list of angels. She is looking for students who can spare a few hours for unusual services — like walking dogs.

ANN LANDERS

If She Were Educated She'd Know Real Things

Dear Ann Landers: If you say this woman's behavior is correct I will take your word for it and not give it another thought. Mrs. X is forever turning over the cups and plates when she attends a tea or a luncheon to see if it is bone china or something cheaper. I have seen her take eyeglasses out of her purse and examine the silverware.

She taps glasses testing for the true ring of expensive crystal. She fingers the tablecloth to determine the quality of the fabric. She sniffs bookcovers to learn if they are genuine leather or plastic. Once she touched a painting to see if it was a lithograph or an oil. The hostess was visibly irritated.

This woman is supposed to be one of the Boston Brahmins — beautifully educated and cultured to the core. What do you have to say about her conduct? — BROOKLINE

Dear Brookline: Cultured people don't examine china and silver for hallmarks while visiting friends. And I don't believe the woman you described is beautifully educated. If she were she wouldn't have to ping the crystal, sniff books and touch pictures to learn if they are the real McCoy. She'd know.

Dear Ann Landers: I must comment on the woman who signed herself "Mother of A Ruined Boy." Some of the details were so close to my own life that I'm sure people who know me think I wrote it.

My son is 21 years of age and he can't decide what necktie to put on in the morning. If the eggs are too hard he throws them in the sink. He went into three different boys' camps and he didn't stay in any of them more than seven days. He was turned down by six colleges and when he was finally accepted by a small junior college he stayed only 10 days.

If his father didn't own a business he wouldn't have a job. When a girl turns him down for a date he cries. I have a 24-year-old baby on my hands and it is my fault. I ruined this boy and I am sad and sorry. Thank you for letting me get this off my chest. — ANOTHER FAILURE

Dear Another: Getting it off your chest doesn't help the boy much. He has needed professional help for a long time. See that he gets it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl with a strange problem. It is the way my boyfriend dances. It's not that he is a rotten dancer. He is very good. Too good.

I have done everything under the sun to follow him but I just can't do the fancy steps. I've practiced at home but it hasn't helped. If he would stick to simple dancing we would get along fine but he insists on doing the show-off stuff and it's not my style.

Why would a fellow embarrass a girl like that? Is there a solution? — TWO LEFT LEGS

Dear Two: I know the type. He doesn't need a partner because he's always doing a solo. Tell him you'd be glad to do the simple stuff but when he wants to try for the cup to please let you know so you can sit the number out and he can get a girl who will help him look good.

Royals Regain Top Spot After Defeat Of Rutland

Royal Anne Royals regained the winning touch just in time to regain first place in the Kelowna and District Senior B Softball League.

The Royals, who have led the five-team circuit almost continually from the beginning of the season, had been on the skids lately and Monday saw their hold on first place vanish into the hands of the Rutland Rovers.

But the Royals came through with the big victory Tuesday, turning back those same Rovers 4-1 at King's Stadium.

allowed just three hits and one unearned run in going the route for the winners. He struck out six and allowed only two runs to advance past second base.

The Royals fared little better against Arnie Rath, the losing pitcher. Rath had things well under control for four innings and retired the first 11 men in order.

He struck out Joe Fisher to work out of a jam in the fourth inning before seeing the game crumble around his shoulders in the fifth frame.

Combres opened the inning with a walk. Richard Bullock followed by reaching base on an error. Ken McCready singled and Wayne Horning cleared the bases with a homer.

Rath got Nick Bullock to fly out and struck out Norbert Korthals to end the inning but the damage had already been done. Four runs had crossed the plate.

Rath allowed only four hits and struck out six in a losing cause. He allowed no more than one hit and Horning's homer was the only extra-base hit the Royals could manage.

The Rovers got their run on a single by Dale Forsythe, a stolen base and an error in the fifth inning.

Both Combres and Rath showed excellent control, walking one man each. Combres hit Rath in the fourth inning to issue the only other free ticket.

In the only game scheduled tonight, the Carlings meet the surging Willow Inn Willows at King's Stadium. The Willows loom large in the playoff picture after sweeping a three-game set last weekend.

Golfers Tee Off In British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (CP) — Defending champion Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina teed off in the first round of the 72-hole British Open golf tournament today with the modest conviction that at 45 he has as good a chance as any in the 130-man field to win.

"I'm 12 to 1, the bookies say," De Vicenzo said.

"But for my money everybody is 25 to 1. Any one of at least 25 can win it, Jack Nicklaus and all the others and me too, and so that makes all of us 25 to 1."

In fact, Nicklaus at 4 to 1 and Bill Casper at 5 to 1 appeared to be rather false favorites to master Carnoustie's 7,252-yard par-72 layout at such low odds.

A rapid shift in the weather put many of the golf stars in the running, including even some of the short hitters.

The North Sea winds which often turn Carnoustie into a tiger strangely were absent. Enough sun and overnight rain transformed the links into a sheer delight.

Carnoustie's last three holes constitute one of the world's most testing finishes, not only because of the design and length but also because of the Barry Burn River which meanders mischievously across the fairways.

BEST GOLFERS COMPETE

The best golfers in the Commonwealth were on the links.

Al Balding of Toronto was the only Canadian in the field.

Peter Thomson of Australia went after his sixth British Open title but the bookies saw him as a 16-to-1 outsider.

Bruce Devlin, another Australian and the winner in 1966, was rated at 12 to 1 along with Gay Brewer, winner of the U.S. Masters last year and two other Americans, Bert Yancey and Doug Sanders.

South Africa's Gary Player was rated 8 to 1 and American Arnold Palmer 10 to 1.

Tough, which some players regarded as unfair on about five holes, was cut Tuesday to eliminate the possibility of a good shot being unfairly penalized.

The forecast was for favorable weather which could

ARNOLD PALMER ... could threaten threaten Ben Hogan's 1953 record of 282 for 72 holes as well as his final round 68, as yet unbeaten in competition around Carnoustie.

WILL CUT FIELD

After 18 holes today and another 18 Thursday, the field is cut to low 70 and ties. This again is cut after 54 holes to the low 45 and ties with Saturday's final going for the biggest purse the British Open ever has offered in its 109-year history.

Prize money adds up to $20,000 ($52,000). The winner's share of $3,000 ($7,800) is small compared with North American standards but the man who collects it knows he will have a bonanza of more than $100,000 in fringe benefits plus a special niche in golf's Hall of Fame.

One of the big question marks of the championship surrounded Palmer, 38-year-old millionaire who won the British Open in 1961 and 1962 and at any given moment is likely to explode into brilliance.

He scuffed around Carnoustie Tuesday, all over the course and unimpressive indeed.

It was heard to tell if Arnold is oversteering or overgolfed or overrich. He doesn't know himself, he said.

Opposing Managers Agree Pitching Dominated Game

HOUSTON (AP) — "Pitchers dominated the game as they did last season," said Red Schoendienst.

"There was great pitching on both sides," said Dick Williams. "But that's the way it has been all year."

So the opposing managers, Schoendienst of the National League and Williams of the American League, saw eye to eye on what made the low-scoring 1968 all-star baseball game turn out as it did Tuesday night.

There were other factors, too — a big on-base being Willie Mays' opening single and skipper-hop base running that brought in the Nationals' only run in their 1-0 victory.

But it was mainly a battle in which the all-star pitchers made the all-star hitters look as though they belonged on the awkward squad.

It was the Nationals' sixth straight all-star victory.

NATIONALS POP CORKS

Buckets of champagne were available in both dressing rooms but only the Nationals popped the corks.

However, the American League took the loss in stride. The only bitter player was Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins — and it wasn't the loss that bothered him.

Killebrew, the American League's first baseman, suffered a severe hamstring pull in his left leg while stretching for a low throw from shortstop Jim Fregosi in the third inning.

In obvious pain as he dressed, Killebrew shrugged off most questions with: "I'd rather not talk about it."

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, the starting and winning pitcher for the Nationals, said he relied mostly on the fast ball and slider.

Juan Marchal of the San Francisco Giants, another National League hurler, said: "We had great pitching and great defense. That's a combination hard to beat."

Tom Seaver of the New York Mets said low-scoring games have been the trend all year.

"Good pitching will overcome good hitting at all times," he

Kelowna Bows To Vernon In Senior Lacrosse Play

Kelowna O'Keefe's stumbled to their 13th straight loss in the Okanagan Mainline Lacrosse Association Tuesday, dropping a 19-3 decision to the Labatts in Vernon.

The win maintained Vernon's possession of first place in the four-team league while Kelowna, still winless in league competition, remained deep in the league basement.

The loss provided a type of moral victory for Kelowna, who held the powerful Vernon team to less than 20 goals for the first time this season. They had to limit Vernon to just five goals in the final period to pull off the feat.

Vernon held period leads of 8-2 and 14-3. They held Kelowna scoreless in the final 20 minutes.

Grant Kaulback led Vernon with five goals. Kim Fulton scored four more for the winners. Matty Jordan got three and Norm Ogasawara added a pair.

Singles were scored by Dave Ansley, Len Sakakibara, Mike Sigale, Gerry Boyce and Ross McDougall.

Kelowna goals were scored by Kasper Walraven, Stan Galigan and Mike Haley.

The game was among the roughest this year for both teams with a total of 21 penalties called. Kelowna took the majority of infractions with 14 compared with only seven for Vernon.

Match penalties were handed out to Vernon's Ogasawara and Kelowna's Walraven following separate disagreements with referee Ben Douglas in the second period.

Ogasawara got his exit for disputing a penalty while Walraven got the gate for throwing his lacrosse stick into the crowd after another penalty call.

Doug Spurling and John Ritchie collected a total of eight penalties for Kelowna. Spurling was ticketed for five minors while Ritchie had three.

Vernon plays Prince George in an exhibition game Saturday night in Vernon.

Kelowna returns to action today when they host the Armstrong Shamrocks at the Memorial Arena. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Saturday night, the OK's travel to Kamloops for a game against the Molsons.

Willie Makes Difference In National League Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Things happen when Willie Mays is on a baseball field, and that as much as anything tells why the National League won its sixth straight all-star game against the American League Tuesday night.

Willie made the difference again, scoring the only run in the National League's 1-0 victory in the 39th all-star renewal.

His first-inning run was all the Nationals needed with six pitchers sharing a three-hit, 11-strikeout performance.

American League players hit only three fly balls all night, none of them to Mays' centre field zone in the Astro dome.

Mays, who became a starter because Cincinnati's Pete Rose broke his thumb Saturday night, opened with a single against Cleveland's Luis Tiant.

He led off first and Tiant threw to Harmon Killebrew. Mays stepped back, then again led away. Again Tiant tossed and this time Killebrew bobbled it.

"He said the ball moved," said Tiant quoting Killebrew. "I guess it curved."

Mays thought it glanced off his back. At any rate, the ball eluded Killebrew and Mays took off for second.

Now Tiant turned his attention to Curt Flood, St. Louis' centre fielder who was playing left because Mays was in the National League lineup.

Tiant fell behind and on the fourth ball, he uncorked a wild pitch that flew high over catcher Bill Freehan's head.

Tiant said he crossed Freehan up on the pitch, delivering a high fastball when the catcher called for a low curve.

"It can happen a lot of times when you get a strange catcher working with a strange pitcher," said Dick Williams, manager of the American League team.

Flood at first and none out, it looked like a big inning budding.

The American League played the infield back, hoping for a double play. Willie McCovey cracked a sharp shot right at second baseman Rod Carew.

Carew hesitated for a fleeting moment, but Mays already was bearing down on the plate, so the Minnesota infielder went for the double play. The American League didn't know it, but they had won the battle and lost the war.

"I had no idea one run would win it," said Mays. "I was just lucky enough to score the winning run."

The hit that started the rally was Mays' 23rd and the run he scored was his 20th in all-star play — both records.

The National League pitchers came through beautifully.

Don Drysdale permitted a leadoff double to Jim Fregosi and the American League didn't have another runner until Tony Oliva doubled against Tom Seaver with two out in the seventh.

Twenty batters went up and down in between against Drysdale, Juan Marchal, Steve Carlton and Seaver. There was another two-out double in the eighth by Don Wert and nothing more.

Seaver struck out five batters in two innings and in the last three innings of the game seven of the nine American League batters retired went down on strikes. Ron Reed and Jerry Koonman shared the ninth, fanning two between them.

American League hurlers were almost as sharp, allowing just five hits and striking out nine. But Mays' first-inning run made the difference.

Another NL All-Star pitcher, Juan Marchal, said:

"We had great pitching and great defence. It's hard to beat. I sure feels good to beat the American League again."

Frank Howard didn't have to raise his voice when he talked to reporters in the American League locker room. It was so quiet you could hear the spirit drop.

"If they hadn't scored that one run, we'd still be playing," he said.

And he shrugged.

IGNORE CHAMPAGNE

Nobody felt like talking. The American Leagueurs did so only when reporters forced it. They just came in, changed clothes and started eating at a buffet.

Bottles of champagne cooling in a bucket went untouched.

Harmon Killebrew, the Minnesota first baseman whose first inning error allowed the Giants' Willie Mays to advance to second and eventually score the only run, limped badly and dodged questions. Killebrew was carried from the game on a stretcher after pulling a hamstring in the back of his left leg in the third inning.

Dick Williams of Boston, the American League manager, said he thought the teams were evenly matched and was not surprised at the 1-0 score.

"Both clubs had good pitching," he said. "Both me and Red looked for a low score. Pitching has dominated this year."

Schoendienst, who had predicted the contest would be a low-scoring, pitcher's battle probably summed it up when he said:

"What can you say about a 1-0 game? We just happened to have the one."

CAHA Issues Ultimatum

PENTICTON (CP) — The British Columbia section of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has thrown back an ultimatum to operators of the province's six junior hockey teams, still undecided on joining the independent Canadian Hockey Association or staying with the CAHA.

Teams have one week to declare their intentions of staying within the CAHA jurisdiction. Don Winslade of New Westminster has advised owners and managers, or else face the possibility of exclusion from league play.

"I'm sure you're aware that the BCHAHL went on record early last year with the CAHA that our branch would guarantee one junior A league operating in B.C.," the branch president reminded operators in a special bulletin.

The warning came less than two weeks after the B.C. junior operators issued an ultimatum threatening to join the break-away CHA unless the CAHA granted the B.C. teams a substantial boost in player development grants, now one-third the rate paid prairie teams in the Western Canada Junior League, and settled the dispute with the National Hockey League over revising junior player maximum age limits to under 21 rather than under 20 on Dec. 31 of the current year.

Only One Anxious Moment For Manager Schoendienst

HOUSTON (AP) — A happy Red Schoendienst, manager of the National League team, said his worst moment in Tuesday night's 1-0 victory over the American League in the All-Star game came when a bat flew into the dugout, narrowly missing his head.

Schoendienst, of St. Louis Cardinals, said: "I hit the deck and stayed down. I got a strawberry on my knee—the first since my playing days."

The bat slipped from the hand of Tony Oliva of Minnesota. It struck Felipe Alou of Atlanta in the back but Alou wasn't hurt.

Schoendienst credited second baseman Tommy Helms with a "helluva job."

"He made some great plays. Some of the plays he made really gave the pitchers a boost."

"There was some great pitching on both sides," said Schoendienst. "Everybody was throwing the ball. I didn't think the game was boring. We won, didn't we?"

DIDN'T USE GIBSON

Schoendienst said he didn't pitch his Cardinal fireballer Bob Gibson because he had a stiff arm.

Willie Mays, who scored the only run, said Luis Tiant's pick-off pitch glanced off his back.

"They (the American League) played a heck of a game," Mays said. "We didn't exactly kill them."

"I was just lucky enough to score the winning run. I had no idea just one run would win."

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, who picked up the victory, said:

"It was a great win. I'd like to take this team on the road, don't believe, even though we have won six in a row, that makes us any better than the American."

Drysdale said he relied mostly on his fast ball and the slider.

Willie Made Luis Nervous

HOUSTON (AP) — Hustle won Tuesday night's all-star baseball game and hustle has always been the trademark of 37-year-old Willie Mays.

Mays sat slumped in the National League dressing room and told how he scored the only run of the game in a pitcher-dominated 39th all-star battle.

For Mays, the San Francisco great, he was almost solemn. He scarcely smiled.

As the leadoff batter for the National League, in the first inning, Mays drilled a grounder between the hole at third base and shortstop.

He started his fancy dance jiggling off first base and this seemed to make the American League starter, Luis Tiant of Cleveland, nervous.

Tiant lobbed over a throw. Mays took another leadoff. Tiant whirled and threw hard to first.

"The ball glanced off my back and I saw the first baseman (Harmon Killebrew) wasn't going to be able to handle it, so I took off," Mays said.

Mays dashed to third moments later on a wild pitch that also walked Curt Flood of St. Louis.

Then Willie McCovey of San Francisco hit a hotshot off the hard synthetic turf to American League second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota. Mays put his head down and tilted for the plate. Carew looked to home and decided to go for the double play.

Owners Talk In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — American and National League owners met in separate sessions here today that could lead to a uniform arrangement in schedules and divisional play for the 1969 baseball season.

Both leagues expand to 12 teams next year with Seattle and Kansas City granted AL franchises and San Diego and Montreal accepted in the NL.

The fly in the ointment is that the AL has decided to split its 12 into two geographical divisions of six teams each and play a 156-game schedule with post-season playoffs before the World Series.

The National planned an undivided 12-team league with a 162-game schedule.

Trade Struggle Will Be Harder Says C of C Chief

MONTREAL (CP) — A. Olaf Wolff, chairman of the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday that Canada will be faced with intensifying competition in future and urged that "we increase our research of the markets surrounding us," especially in the Pacific area.

Mr. Wolff, vice-president of Cominco Ltd., said "we must plan our strategy well ahead" because it is not enough to react to developments as they unfold. Addressing a Montreal service club, he said Canada is destined to "become one of the most important industrial and trading nations in the world of the future."

But, he added, "The important thing is to recognize the fundamental economic shifts that are taking place around us and to monitor the accompanying changes so that we are ready to take the fullest advantage of developing opportunities."

Mr. Wolff stressed the growing importance of the Pacific as the trade area of the future, adding that Japan is the powerhouse which has brought prosperity to that region.

Japan today is the largest shipbuilder in the world, the second largest producer of automobiles and trucks and the third largest producer of steel, he said.

The Japanese answer to the problem of importing more than 120,000,000 tons of coal and ores each year was the development of super-ships. She constructed her steel works and other heavy industrial plants near ocean ports.

Canada must plan to match port facilities to the needs of large bulk shipments and vessels and must supply greater efforts to the problem of moving materials from central regions to the coasts, Mr. Wolff said.

"Since by far the greatest growth in world trade is in manufactured products, it is necessary that we place emphasis on investigating this area of demand among the Pacific rim countries."

NEW OPPORTUNITIES

The development in the Pacific trade area represents "for us vast, new and expanding opportunities for the economic development of Western Canada."

And, said Mr. Wolff "we can never overlook the vast and thickly populated subcontinent of China which has hardly been touched yet by the rapidly-growing commerce in the Pacific area."

"While China's eventual full and free entry into the Pacific rim trade is a matter of conjecture, there seems little doubt that her participation will grow in the years to come."

"Her purchases of wheat and other grains are expected to continue and she could soon be in the Pacific rim market for fertilizers, farm tractors, automobiles, machinery, man-made textile fibres and a wide range of other primary and industrial products."

Text of Mr. Wolff's address was released in advance.

Whoopers Content To Warm Nest When Eggs Have Gone

WHITTHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Wildlife conference. Mr. Kuyt is a biologist with the Canadian Wildlife Service at Fort Smith, N.W.T., on the fringe of the birds' nesting grounds.

The whooping crane population had grown to 46 this spring from a low of 15 birds in 1941. Canada and the U.S. launched the egg-collecting program last year after it had become apparent that "nearly half of the whooping crane nesting effort" was wasted because eggs did not hatch or were taken by predators, Mr. Kuyt said.

A report on the egg-collecting program was made by Ernie Kuyt to a federal-provincial

Man's Effect Upon Wildlife
Given Both Praise And Blame

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP).—Man's effect on wildlife received both encouragement and criticism Tuesday at an annual federal-provincial wildlife conference.

The encouragement came for success in raising in captivity chicks of the rare whooping cranes. The object is a breeding block from which some can be released to bolster the existing wild flock of 46 birds. The wild flock was as low as 15 in 1941.

The criticism was levelled by Stuart Smith, director of Alberta's fish and wildlife branch, at British Columbia's Portage Dam. He said the dam was endangering river flows, and levels of Lake Athabasca and Lake Claire, where about 2,500 native people make their major income from fishing and trapping. "I'm appalled and shocked at the actions that have taken place in B.C.," as I have been for many years."

Mr. Smith said the result of the dam's effect on water levels could be loss of 1,000,000 muskrats, irreparable damage to fishing and harm to the waterfowl hatch next spring. The reduced water levels also could affect Saskatchewan, he said.

REPORTS ON CRANES

The whooping crane report was made by Ernie Kuyt, a Canadian Wildlife Service biologist from Fort Smith, N.W.T., on the fringe of the bird's nesting grounds.

Opening lead — seven of diamonds.

When you are faced with a seemingly impossible task, you should take some extra time to try to figure a way out of your dilemma. This is especially true when the contract is a grand slam and you cannot afford to overlook even a remote possibility.

Consider this case where South is in severe notrump through no fault of his own. North's Blackwood bid is surely reasonable enough, but his failure to inquire about kings after South responds with three aces

South could count twelve tricks after dummy appeared. The chance of finding a singleton king of spades or hearts was very small, so South planned his play in the hope that either opponent would have to guard both kings, in which case a legitimate squeeze could be developed against him.

Accordingly, he cashed five clubs and four diamonds, at which point this became the position:

North
Q10
K9
K10

East
Immaterial

South
A8
Q9

Declarer now cashed the nine of diamonds, discarding a spade from his hand, and West was in deep trouble.

A spade discard would permit South to cash the ace of spades and win the last two tricks in dummy, while a heart discard would allow South to cash the ace of hearts and win the last two tricks in his own hand.

Actually West discarded a heart in the hope of finding East with the queen, and South had no trouble winning the rest of the tricks. So North's prognostication of thirteen tricks actually came true, which would seem to indicate that it pays to live dangerously.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

indicated during next May, June and July. After the aforementioned mid-December-early-February weeks (also excellent for job matters), your next good periods, career-wise, will occur during the latter half of April, in mid-May and June.

Domestic and social interests should prove harmonious for most of the year ahead, with the exception of brief periods in FOR TOMORROW

Restrictive influences lift now, so you should find your path a fairly smooth one. Generally speaking, however, it would be best to stick to routine matters. The time has not quite come to launch new ventures.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you are currently in an excellent period for making long-range plans. Stellar influences are not auspicious for achieving immediate gains in either financial or occupational matters (in fact, conservatism and caution should be "musts" for the next five months), but plans for fiscal expansion conceived now and followed up consistently should produce excellent results between December 15th and February 15th.

Further up-trends in monetary interests are early March and/or early June when you may be under some stress—and, for the single, new romance and/or marriage is a strong likelihood either in September, late December (an all-around good period), in April or May. Most propitious periods for travel: September, October, next February, May and June.

A child born on this day will be endowed with great determination, self-reliance and scientific ability.

Rebuffed Rocky Decides To Conduct His Own Poll

New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller—rebuffed on his call for a cross-country poll to indicate who is the strongest Republican presidential candidate—is reported in Washington ready to conduct it on his own. Richard M. Nixon, whose aides along with Republican national chairman Ray Bliss rejected Rockefeller's proposal Tuesday, concentrated his efforts today on increasing his commanding delegate lead for the nomination. Nixon said he would ask Ohio's 58-vote delegation to consider which presidential candidate would help them the most at home in November.

Louis Rasminsky, 60, has been reappointed governor of the Bank of Canada for a second seven-year term. Prime Minister Trudeau announced Tuesday in Ottawa.

The Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday ruled the $40,000 bail posted for Myer Rush would be forfeited by his parents and two sisters because the Toronto stock promoter did not appear on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public of $100,000,000. Rush was scheduled to appear in court here May 21, but affidavits from three doctors in Panama stated that Rush would be unable to travel to Canada to appear. He flew to London June 21 and now is in custody charged with being a fugitive. Earlier, Mr. Justice Donald Morand ruled the affidavits were forgeries.

Premier Bennett of British Columbia said Tuesday his government plans to build a large office building in downtown Vancouver. Mr. Bennett said the structure, to be named the British Columbia Building, will be "B.C.'s number one prestige building" and will house all government and Crown corporation offices now in the city. The location was purchased from the city in 1964 at a cost of $1,400,000 and now is used as a liquor store location and parking lot. The premier said he hopes the Bank of British Columbia will also be a tenant and that "some very large financial institutions I can't name yet will also be there."

Premier Bennett also said he thinks the federal government will accept his toll-free financing formula for a new Burrard Inlet crossing despite the opposition of Transport Minister Paul Hellyer. "Hellyer is not the whole government. The offer still stands," Mr. Bennett said Monday the provincial government would put up $50,000,000—half the estimated cost of the crossing—instead of the $27,000,000 it had offered previously.

All 240 bottles of poisonous health salts manufactured by a Montreal drug company and shipped to Ottawa stores have been recovered. Dr. Ross Chapman, director-general of the federal food and drug directorate, said Tuesday in Ottawa.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai has admitted that supplies to North Vietnam are being held up because of clashes between rival groups of railway workers in various parts of China, it was reported.

Police are using "a little discretion" before telling maternity patient Sang Rose Wu that she is charged with attempted murder. The 30-year-old Hong Kong woman is charged in connection with the shooting of Anthony Tripodi, 24, an intern at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, Monday. Bernard Simmonds, deputy chief of the Metropolitan Toronto police department, said Tuesday that "the charge has been processed before the court but she has not been confronted with the warrant because of her condition."

Mrs. Elena Horvathova, the first heart transplant patient in Eastern Europe, died Tuesday night in Prague five hours after she received the new heart at the Bratislava University Hospital.

City Woman Attends Meet Of Lutherans

Christ Lutheran congregation of Kelowna was represented at the recent biennial national convention of The Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada which was in session June 27 to July 2 at Calgary. Mrs. E. Schmok of Kelowna attended the convention.

It was the first regular convention of the Canadian Church body held since it attained self-governing status on Jan. 1, 1967. Simultaneous conventions of the church's auxiliaries—the Church Women and the Luther League also met in Calgary. The three conventions, and the laymen's forum, brought over 3,000 persons together for a giant festival rally and pageant at Mewata Stadium on June 30. Some 2,000 attended the western supper which followed in the armories.

Delegates to the church convention from almost every Canadian province approved a $900,000 mission-of-the-church budget to cover the program needs of the division boards. $50,000 in excess of the recommendation of the joint committee, which handles financial matters.

"It was exciting and inspiring to be a part of the Calgary convention," said Mrs. Schmok of Christ Lutheran Church in Kelowna. With the large number of youth present, and the laymen and women who participated in their own conventions, one had the feeling that we were truly of a much greater "Household of Faith." "The Church is here to stay," she said, "and in the days ahead will continue to demonstrate its youthful vigor in serving the needs of people everywhere."

Criticism levelled at the British Columbia government by Canada's first Indian MP Tuesday was refuted by Dan Campbell, B.C. municipal affairs and social welfare minister. Liberal MP Len Marchand of the Kamloops Band said in a speech last week that Premier Bennett did not "even recognize Indians as citizens... those living on reserves don't even qualify for the home-owner grant given B.C. home owners by the provincial government." Mr. Campbell said "no other provincial government in this country is as advanced as B.C. when it comes to wanting to ensure that Indians enjoy full citizenship."

Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec will not attend the Canadian provincial premiers' three-day conference in Regina next month. Mr. Johnson's secretary said Tuesday the premier, who suffered a mild heart attack July 3, would most probably be replaced at the conference by acting-premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, wartime adviser to Prime Minister Winston Churchill, career diplomat and former chief British delegate to the United Nations, died Tuesday at his London home. He was 83. Cadogan accompanied Churchill to the summit conferences of the Second World War and prepared the first draft of the Atlantic Charter at the 1941 meeting of Churchill and President Roosevelt at sea off Newfoundland.

Landlord Michael Pacukiewicz was fined $250 Tuesday in Victoria for breaking a croquet mallet over a tenant's head. Court was told the tenant had asked for more time to pay his rent. Magistrate William Oster, sentencing Pacukiewicz for assault causing bodily harm, told the landlord he was a "pretty greedy man" and should control his temper. The broken mallet was exhibited in court.

Collapsible Steering Wheels Urged After Traffic Death

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's jury recommended Tuesday that all new cars be equipped with collapsible steering wheels after hearing that Gordon Roy McAuley of Ladner died when the steering wheel of his car ripped out his jugular vein in a head-on highway collision June 17. Witnesses said the car driven by McAuley, 18, crossed into the wrong side of the highway and hit another vehicle head-on.

own affairs. The controversial new grants system has prompted the resignation at least two Indian band officials, but Mr. Boys said Tuesday the new formula is being received well by tribes across the country.

TALKS FAIL
NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Talks between representatives of 230 striking civic workers and the city Tuesday with no progress reported. The workers, who seek a nine per cent wage increase as recommended by a conciliation board report that was rejected by the city, have been on strike since June 21.

TWO CHARGED
VANCOUVER (CP)—Michael Skitt, 22, and Keith Lucky Whetstone, 26, were charged by police Tuesday with the $3,143 robbery of a Bank of Nova Scotia branch Monday. They were to appear in court today.
